

Explore the Amazing World of NOAA Sciences!!

Saturday ScienceFest offers hands-on adventures designed to introduce children to the wonders of NOAA sciences in a fun and highly imaginative environment.

Saturday ScienceFest Features:

- Incredible experiments and projects that bring science to life for children in grades 5-8
- Interactive activities led by energetic and highly trained professionals
- Science and environment give-aways including stickers, t-shirts, collectable pins, and more available exclusively to participants!

Discover how clouds form, what makes air pollution, the secrets of space weather, and more!

Register Today!
Visit
ncas.howard.edu or call 202-865-8678!

November 14, 2009 from 9:30 am - 1:30 pm at the Howard University Middle School for Math and Science